Chronological understanding	Children begin to explore their own history through organising events in order, exploring experiences in their past and beginning to explore their family’s history.	Children explore the past through stories they read and explore characters, settings and events through these stories. They begin to develop their understanding of life in the past and life now, using their experiences, stories and images.	Changes within living memory. Space race Toys Events commemorated through festivals or anniversaries. Understand and use simple vocabulary to talk about the past (e.g. old, new, then, now, a long time ago). Sort events, objects, people or pictures into groups (e.g. then and now, old and new).	Changes beyond living memory. Great Fire of London Events commemorated through festivals or anniversaries. Understand and use the vocabulary of past and present and use a range of appropriate words and phrases to describe and order events in the past. Place events, pictures, objects or significant people into chronological order.
